

For a Sustainable World

FREE COME-AND-GO PUBLIC EVENT

Saturday, October 15, 2022 10 AM to 2 PM

Acton Nature Center 6900 Smoky Hill Ct., Granbury, TX 76049

INTERACTIVE EXHIBITS

Geology – Soils – Water – Atmosphere

Featuring

Prairielands Groundwater Conservation District Water Education Mobile

Texas Agrilife Extension Stream Trailer

WATERSHED WALK

Guided tour of Acton Nature Center Watersheds (with rocks, fossils, soils, water, & plant communities)

11:30 am

(Please wear closed toe shoes.)

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN

Discover and Recover a Fossil – Pictures with Pebbles – Edible Sedimentary Rocks

Acton Nature Center www.actonnaturecenter.com

Texas Master Naturalist, Rio Brazos Chapter https://txmn.org/rbc/

IN RECOGNITION OF

Earth Science Week is organized yearly by the American Geosciences Institute and recognized nationally and internationally to help the public gain a better understanding of and appreciation for the Earth sciences and to encourage stewardship of the Earth.

“Earth Science for a Sustainable World” – the 2022 theme for Earth Science Week – emphasizes the essential role of Earth science in helping people make decisions that maintain and strengthen the planet’s ability to support thriving life.

PRESENTED BY

PARTNERS AND SPONSORS

